THE LOST CITY OF NEW ENGLAND.

[From the Portland Press.]

Three hundred years ago there stood on the banks of the Penobscot, we are assured by the veracious chroniclers of that time, a city so rich that its humblest denizens fed from dishes of gold which were never used twice, that its children played with diamonds and pearls in place of common pebbles, and tossed rubies to and fro in their games. The houses had massive pillars of silver and crystal, the streets were broader than the streets of London. About the town were groves of nutmeg trees and other precious woods, and the breezes that caressed the roofs of gold and marble were heavily laden with spices. It kept its state for a hundred years after it became known to the old world. Then, one day in the infancy of the seventeenth century, it suddenly disappeared, and has never since been seen. Upon its site is the modern city of Bangor.

It was in 1523 that the stories of its splendor first reached European ears, and for a century after that the fortune seekers of the old world vainly sought its cloud-capped towers and gorgeous palaces. When first known it was called Arambec, and Peter Martyr records, but soon became famous under the name of Norumbega. For a hundred years it was the golden fleece of the adventurous navigators who crossed the ocean and explored the North Atlantic coast. Kings gave the city to their favorites in consideration of their affection—and of a moiety of its vast wealth. Francis I made Roberval "Lord of Norumbega," and in 1573 Gilbert, bearing the commission of Elizabeth, sailed in search of it and lost his life in the venture. Those to whom its lordship was given were never so happy as to enter into their kingdom; but there were men who saw the city. An English sailor found there kings whose robes were stiff with rubies six inches long, and in many of the houses he saw pearls to the amount of a peck or more. He brought no jewels away, however, that being forbidden. André Thevet, a monk, much given to voyaging—and to lying, his friends said—visited the city and saw there medicinal and aromatic drugs and various relics of gold. In his chart he places Norumbega near Gog and Magog, Greenland, Tartary and Cathay. In the great French map of 1543, a city of stately castles and imposing towers is seated on the banks of the Penobscot and holds dominion over a vast province which bears its name.

But Norumbega was as elusive as the Island of St. Brandon. Spanish freebooters, French missionaries, English merchants, all sought it in vain. Finally in 1604, Champlain sailed up the Penobscot to its site, but the city had vanished—and has never since been seen of mortal eye. The Frenchman found only huts made of pickets and covered with skins of animals. The stately palaces, the groves of spice trees, the store of gold and precious stones had disappeared. Champlain broke the charm of the place. The lost city ceased to haunt the imaginations of men and allure them to a wild and inhospitable shore. Thereafter they sought wealth in Norumbega they won it by hard labor from its dense woods, ice-sheeted river, or granite base. Yet the belief in its existence did not easily die out, and as late as 1650, Heylin in his Cosmography speaks, somewhat doubtingly, for faith in its reality was growing dim, of the "fair city."

The traditions of Norumbega are revived by a paper in the initial number of the Magazine of American History, a periodical devoted to the historical research which has just been started in New York. The paper is rich in information, and those who wish to know more of the lost city of New England will consult it; but it is marred by the bigoted skepticism which is the bane of our age. Its author holds that Norumbega never was. The editor of the Magazine, Mr. John Austin Stevens, is librarian of the New York Historical Society, and it was his duty to revise the papers, for he should know, not only that Norumbega once existed but that it will exist again. It is a fact undisputed that all the famous missing cities are not lost, but are only hidden from the eyes of man unworthy to look upon them. It is well known that they are enchanted, that to possess them is a delight, and that so great a favor is never granted to the wicked. Norumbega was of these. Champlain, who broke its charm had doubtless some great slump on his soul. But it is as certain as anything in the future can be that Norumbega will sometime gladden the eyes of men, and that it is only the wickedness of those who dwell upon its site which postpones the happy hour. It behooves the people of Bangor to forsake their evil ways and to become good. Then, some fair day they will awaken to find themselves dwelling in the "happy city" embowered in its groves of spice trees, and the old hall which bears the enchanted name will be a towered palace with walls of marble and of gold, and chambers studded with precious stones. But it is greatly to be feared that the gladsome sight will never bless the vision of this generation.

NEW MAGAZINES.

WIDE AWAKE for February opens with Little True Blue, by Lucia Chase Bell, a stirring Minnesota winter-story. Mr. Wm. M. F. Round follows with Child Marian Abroad, in which Marian has a very funny experience in trying to see Queen Victoria. Mrs. Whiton's exquisite poem, "A Little Child's Fancies," is exquisitely illustrated by a full-page drawing from the pencil of Miss L. B. Humphrey. There are many other short stories and poems, Valentines, by Mary C. Bartlett, The Pink Parrot and the Gray Boy, by Ella Farman, Lulu's Pets, by Mary Standish Robinson, ... Catching, by Rose Graham, A Dog and his Kittens Three, by Mrs. Frank McCarthy, A Nut to Crack, by Josephine Pollard, the Second Adventure of Miltiades Peterkin Paul, by John Brownjohn. The serial, Old Proprietor, Flossy and Bossy carries us to Uncle Martin's Wig.

Two papers in this number will attract special attention. The Poet's Home Series, No. VII, gives a portrait of Edgar Fawcett, and the article by Mrs. Fannie Ropes Feudge, My Visit to the Birthplace of the Siamese Twins. The serials, Quinnebasset Girls, by Sophie May, and Good-for-Nothing Polly, by Ella Farman, are capital. Daughter and Four Girls will be sure to learn a great deal of practical physiology. A Doll's Fair, illustrated by three engravings, is sure to be read by every little girl in the country. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston ...

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE for February is especially strong in fiction. Besides the continuation of George Macdonald's serial, The Marquis of Lossie, which is equally powerful in incident and delineation of character, there are two capital short stories, Hebe, by the author of Blindpits, and The Cruise of the Heron, by James T. McKay, and the opening chapters of Auerbach's new tale, Young Aloys; or, The Gawk from America, which may be described as glimpses of German life through American spectacles. Of the other articles the most noticeable are Gail Hamilton's Railroad Reflections, suggested by a journey on the Union Pacific Railroad, and presenting a vivid picture of the obstacles encountered in the achievement of that great enterprise; the concluding portions of Edward King's Pictures from Spain and Edward Bruce's Fires of Fire, both full of entertaining information and amply illustrated; and a scholarly analysis of the second part of Goethe's Faust, by Prof. W. H. Goodyear. There are several poems in the number, the best being The Christmas Tree, by Emma Lazarus, and a sonnet on The Wabash, by Maurice Thompson. The Monthly Gossip presents the usual variety of topics. J. B. Lippincott & Co., Publishers, Philadelphia, Pa.

QUITE HONESTLY FROM THE DEAD

James Madison said once it would be [illegible] to elect a minority candidate to the [illegible] He also spoke of the possibility of a State vote having a fatal effect [illegible] But what was Madison in comparison to Morton Sherman and Ferry? — Bangor Commercial.

The dishonesty of the intent of the above paragraph in a sheet that advocates the right of the House of Representatives to control the Presidential election, is eminently characteristic. James Madison was opposed to the interference of Congress with the election of the Executive that in 1801 when Jefferson and Burr had a tie vote in the Electoral College, and it was thought possible that faction in the House might fasten upon John Adams the third candidate, he wrote the letter above referred to in which he denounced the proposed action of the House as a "usurpation," notwithstanding the Constitution conferred the [illegible] right to choose either of the three highest candidates. He characterized the suggestion as an attempt to strangle the election of the people and smuggle into the chief magistracy the choice of a faction and holding that the election belonged either to Jefferson or Burr, he recommended in case a minority candidate should be elected by the House that Congress be [illegible] by joint proclamation or recommendation of the two characters having a majority of votes for President not to decide the choice, but to take measures [illegible] the intentions of the people shall be ascertained and carried out. [illegible] we find James Madison advising resort to extraordinary measures to defeat interference by the House with the election and [illegible] the advocates to-day of the doctrine that the Electoral votes of one, or a dozen, or twenty States may be thrown out arbitrarily at the will of a partisan majority in that one branch of Congress, [illegible] quibbling of his opinions as giving sanction to those who would have filled him with horror. But what is the sanctity of Madison's grave if by crawling upon it little Samuel J. Tilden [illegible] stretch up a few inches toward the White House?

THE OREGON $8,000

The following editorial of the New York [illegible] which the Bangor [illegible] of that concern has failed to reproduce.

The [illegible] absorbing question before the country to-day relates to the sum of $8,000 sent from this city to Oregon on December 6th 1876.

Mr Jordan, cashier of the Third National Bank swears that he forwarded this [illegible] at the request of Colonel W. T. Pelton. The money was sent back [illegible] afterward, on December [illegible].

There is nothing else that people are [illegible] so much anxiety as Colonel Pelton's explanation of this mystery.

Whose was the money, and for what purpose was it sent to Oregon? These are the questions that everybody wants to have satisfactorily answered.

We may remark that Col Pelton's explanation is far from satisfactory. The sum of $8,000 is pretty large for lawyers' fees for making an argument [illegible] to the Oregon and Cronin's testimony that [illegible] got $3,000 of the money for expenses [illegible] with Pelton's plea. Of the evidence obtained we think the general answer to the last two questions in the above extract would be that it was Tilden's money and that it was sent to Oregon for the purpose of buying an Elector's vote.

CONFEDERATE BONDS IN EUROPE

The following is an extract from a letter from an entirely trustworthy correspondent in London and received by a high official in Washington. There has been one [illegible] as to whether Confederate bonds were really sold in Europe on the supposition that Tilden had been elected and while the information has been sufficient to satisfy all persons except those who do not wish to believe, no statement so clear and direct has yet been published as that which follows:

On Wednesday Nov 8 the day after the election all despatches to the London [illegible] and evening newspapers, and many despatches to private parties said Mr Tilden was elected President of the United States by a very large majority. On the 9th Confederate bonds began to be quoted and continued to be until the 11th [illegible]. Your cable to me received on that date saying that Hayes was probably elected was the first information received of a change in the status. This despatch I at once communicated, to the most intimate banker and broker, and also to the U. S. Minister at London; and Paris [illegible] newspapers of Sunday the 12th [illegible] there was a short article saying that a despatch had been received at the United States Legation, saying that Mr Hayes was probably elected and on the 13th the [illegible] appeared in all the morning papers, expressing doubt as to which candidate was elected, but favoring Mr Hayes. After this announcement no further quotations of Confederate bonds appeared. The Stock Exchange would not allow any official quotation but the fact of their being made appeared in the morning [illegible] of different papers. Sales were made both in London and Liverpool, and [illegible] show that it was generally known throughout Europe, Messrs Rothschild informed me that a party in Germany sent them $80,000 to sell. I consulted several of the leading bankers and brokers and they informed me that it would be difficult to tell the exact figure, but all agreed that the highest price was 4½ to 5, or thereabouts. Most of the parties could not give the date in any other way than by saying it was two or three days after the election. Others said November 9, 10 or 11.

DEATH OF EX CHIEF JUSTICE SHEPLEY. Ex-Chief Justice Shepley died at his residence in Portland Monday, after a brief illness of less than a week, occasioned by a fall, at the great age of 87. He was born Nov. 2d, 1789, at Groton, Mass. and graduated at Dartmouth in 1811. On being admitted to the bar in 1814, he opened a law office in Saco. In 1810 he married Miss Anna Foster. In 1819 he was chosen a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, and the same year a member of the convention to frame the constitution of Maine. He was the last survivor of that body. In 1821 he was appointed United States Attorney for Maine, which office he held till 1833, when he was elected United States Senator to succeed John Holmes.

In 1836 Senator Shepley was appointed a Justice of the Maine Supreme Court, and in 1848 was made Chief Justice, which position he held one term, till 1855. In 1856 he was appointed to revise the laws of Maine. He was 33 years a Trustee of Bowdoin College. In 1823 he became connected with the Congregational Church. His wife died in 1857. He leaves three sons—John R., a prominent lawyer at St. Louis, George F., Judge of the U. S. Circuit Court, and Leonard D., of the Portland Water Co.

SECRETARY CHANDLER'S TESTIMONY.

TWEED'S LAWYER AS A TILDEN BULL-DOZER—HE FAILS TO FRIGHTEN OR HUMBUG MR. CHANDLER—THE ATTEMPTED SENSATION A FAILURE.

After maintaining secrecy long enough to telegraph sensational reports all over the country the Proctor Knott committee—in which David Dudley Field, the notorious legal champion of Tweed and Jim Fisk, has assumed the role of "chief bull-dozer"—has been compelled by universal protest to open the doors and a transcript of the examination of Secretary Chandler shows the falsehood of the partisan reports and the complete failure to produce anything discreditable to Mr Chandler or the Republican party. Some of the hypothetical questions asked pretending to give the purport of alleged despatches are so absurd that it is evident they were concocted solely to give some one an impression that such despatches had been found. The examination proved, however, a fruitless hunt, and the sharp practice of Tilden's attorney did not avail. The humbug of this effort to distract attention from the Oregon fraud is transparent. On the night of the November election Tilden's arrangements to have everything claimed by telegraph deceived nearly the whole press of the country. In addition to the States conceded to the Democrats they claimed Wisconsin, Michigan, Oregon, California, Nevada and seemed to have a decisive majority. The N. Y. Times, however, depended on its special advices, and in its latest edition announced that California, Oregon, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nevada, Louisiana and South Carolina had gone for Hayes giving him 184 votes with Florida to hear from. This was telegraphed us from the Times office at the time of sending its latest edition to press, but the despatch reached here too late for our issue. Concerning the Republicanism of Florida neither party had entertained a doubt, and Tilden had even refused to aid the committee in that State, on the ground that it would be a waste of effort. When it was found that the Democrats had falsified the results in several States by their despatches and that with Florida Hayes had a clear majority the attention of both parties was naturally turned to the three Southern Republican States, and while the Democrats at once started their emissaries to intercept and intimidate canvassers and to overturn the result by fraud the leaders of the Republican party naturally and properly telegraphed warning to their friends in those States urging them to vigilance and assuring them of protection and support. That is the whole of it and the Democratic fuglers may bellow themselves hoarse about it. Chandler's despatches which he had a perfect right to send and which as Chairman of the Republican National Committee it was his duty to send and they will only succeed in being laughed at by the country.

The following is the report of Chairman Chandler's examination as furnished to the press:

The committee have removed the injunction of secrecy placed upon the testimony of Secretary Chandler taken on Saturday. The testimony related mainly to correspondence between Secretary Chandler, as Secretary of the National Republican Committee, and Gov. Stearns and others in Florida, relating to the election in that State. The examination was conducted by Mr. Field. The following were among the questions and answers:

Q—On the 8th of November did you communicate by telegraph or letter with any persons in Florida? A—I cannot answer that question, I should think it very likely but I have no recollection.

Q—To the best of your recollection did you? A—I should think that the probability was that I did.

Q—With whom? A—If with anybody it was with Gov Stearns, I remember receiving a telegram from him my impression would be that I received it, but I am not certain on that point.

Q—What was the telegram which you received from him? A—I cannot answer that, there was something in it about a train being wrecked which was taking people to investigate, I should think it must have been the night after the election that that telegram was received.

Q—Was the word "Ku Klux" used in it? A—That I cannot answer. The idea was that this wrecking of trains was done by evil-disposed persons to prevent the true returns from being brought in.

Q—Was that telegram received from Stearns after you had sent him two telegrams that same day? A—No Sir, I should say not, my recollection would be that I had sent him no telegram prior to that.

Q—Was not that telegram an answer to a telegram from you? A—I think not. I have no recollection of having sent him a telegram prior to that.

Q—Was not this telegram from Stearns to you, viz: "We cannot carry it for Hayes unless we have the Army to back us and money immediately; train wrecked, Ku Klux"? A—I don't think that was the telegram.

Q—Will you state that it was not? A—No, Sir, I have never seen the telegram from that day to this.

Q—Have you no recollection about its contents? A—(After examining the memorandum quoted by Mr Field)—I will try to find that telegram. It is possible that this was the telegram, but it would not be according to my recollection.

Q—Did you not on the 8th of November about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, telegraph this to Gov. Stearns: "We have blank votes and must have Florida, South Carolina and Louisiana, by fair means or otherwise, you can have all the soldiers and money you want"? A—No, sir, I never sent any such telegram nor the substance of it.

Q—Were any telegrams sent in your name without your knowledge? A—Not that I am aware of.

Q—Had any one any authority to use your name in the telegraph office? A—No, sir, except under my direction.

Q—Did you, on the same day, and after the one which I have asked you about, if any such was sent, telegraph to Governor Stearns this: "You must send couriers to every county and doctor the returns to show a majority for Hayes"? A—No, sir, I sent no such dispatch.

Q—Did you send any of that purport in any way? A—It is very possible that I may have telegraphed or written to him to send a man out to examine returns and prevent frauds, if I sent one at all it was to that purport.

Q—Do you recollect whether you did or not? A—No, sir, I do not.

Q—Is not this telegram to you about the wrecked train in answer to your telegram about sending out messengers? A—No, sir, I should say not; my recollection is that the first despatch was from him.

Q—Did you send a telegram to Governor Stearns to send out couriers to different parts of Florida in relation to the returns? A—I say that that is probable, I have no recollection on the subject; I know that I then wrote the telegram that I wanted these polls watched to prevent frauds.

Q—The telegram from him was, as you say you think, on the 8th? A—It was on the day after the election; on the night of the 8th, I should think.

Q—After you got the telegram that the train had been wrecked, did you then telegraph to him to send couriers? A—I cannot answer that. I know that all day on Wednesday the thing looked pretty dark; I do not think that I sent any telegram to anybody.

Q—But if you got this telegram from him that the train was wrecked on going out, do you think that after that you sent a telegram to him to send couriers? A—I cannot answer that.

Q—Refreshing your recollection as to that, do you not think that your telegraphed to Mr. Stearns on the first day after election? A—No, sir, my recollection would be that I did not.

Q—Did you not on that day, the day after the election, telegraph to Mr. Stearns that William E. Chandler leaves for Florida to-night on important business? A—I telegraphed that in all probability; I should say, however that that was the second day after the election.

Q—Did you give him instructions in writing? A—No, Sir.

Q—They were all verbal? A—He was a member of the Executive Committee.

Q—Did he receive any instructions? A—None whatever.

Q—He went there to do whatever he saw fit? A—He went there to exercise his own judgment.

Q—Without any instructions or information? A—He had no instructions whatever, either written or oral.

Q—Was anything said to him about money or troops? A—Not that I am aware of.

Q—In your communications with Gov Stearns did you in any way say or intimate anything about money? A—I think not, I have no recollection of it.

Q—Did you say or intimate anything about troops? A—I should think I did.

Q—What did you intimate or say? A—That troops would be sent to keep the peace—or words to that effect, sent to Tallahassee.

Q—Had you any authority to say that troops would be sent? A—That I decline to answer.

Q—On what ground? A—On the ground that I have no right to divulge anything between the Executive and a member of his Cabinet.

Q—Had you an interview with the President on the subject of troops? (Objected to by Mr Lawrence and the question withdrawn.)

Q—Did you make that communication about troops of your own motion, or at the suggestion of some one else—not in the Executive Department? A—I decline to answer the question.

Q—In any of your communications with Gov Stearns, either to him or from him, was anything said about money? A—I should think not. I have no recollection of it.

Q—Did you, after your return to Washington, subsequent to the election telegraph to Gov Stearns that you had seen the President and Secretary of War? A—I have no recollection of sending such a telegram.

Q—Did you not, in a communication to Gov. Stearns mention that you had an interview with one of those officers? A—I say I have no recollection of it.

Q—Will you say that you did not? A—I cannot say that I did not; but I have no recollection of having sent any such telegram.

Q—Did you telegraph these words or their substance: "I have seen the Secretary of War and am authorized to say to you that you can have all the money and troops that you want. Let nothing be undone"? A—I never sent any such telegram.

Q—Or any telegram containing a part of that? A—Not to my recollection.

Q—Did you send any telegram to him after your return to Washington? A—I have no such recollection. [The following was carefully copied from the Congressional verbatim report.]

Secretary Chandler was questioned as to his correspondence with persons in Louisiana and the following question was put: Will you produce the telegrams and letters that have passed between you and Governor Kellogg since the election? A—I will if I have them, if are not the slightest sort of a [illegible], there was not a thing which I was not ready to show to the newspapers.

Mr Field—Be good enough to look for them and produce them to the committee.

Witness—Certainly.

Q—In any communications with any of [illegible] in Louisiana has anything been said about money or troops? A—I cannot answer that, I do not recollect.

Q—To the best of your recollection, was anything said about either of those subjects? A—No sir, I [illegible] no communication to me.

Q—Whether to or from you? A—I should say not, that would be my recollection, I want here to make a remark, a telegram is very much in the nature of a postal card in the mails, and I never put on the wires anything which I was not willing to see in print the next day.

Mr Field—But you are aware that Congress has found it very difficult to get any of those telegrams?

Witness—For the first time.

Mr Field—Those postal cards have been in some way or another covered up.

Witness—There are, I suppose, 1,700 telegraph offices where messages can be taken off 1,700 times, and I have never sent a telegram in my life that I was not willing to see in print the next day.

Q—Did you authorize any telegram in the name of any one else? A—Never that I am aware of.

Q—Did you sanction or were you informed of any telegram being sent on the business of that committee in the name of anybody other than yourself? A—Governor McCormick sometimes telegraphed in his own name as Secretary.

Q—With the exception of Gov. McCormick and yourself? A—That is all.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

THE LATEST EXPEDIENT—A MATCH GAME OF "SEVEN UP" SUGGESTED AS AN IMPROVEMENT—THE OREGON BRIBERY, ETC.

WASHINGTON, Jan 13 1877.

It is now reported that the Senate committee have agreed upon a plan for counting the Electoral vote, which plan as announced in the New York papers of to-day proposes a joint commission of Senators, Representatives and Judges, an odd number to be obtained by rejecting one member by lot.

It is said that the House committee will not adopt this proposition for the reason that it would all depend on the drawing of the lot to see who would be struck off from the joint committee of ten and that it be a mere game of chance the Republicans would be as likely to draw a fortunate lot as would the Democrats. It is more than likely that the House committee will report a plan as follows:

Those States about which there is no dispute will be settled as proposed by the Senate committee. In the case of objection to a return from any state instead of the appointment of a joint commission as proposed by the Senate committee the presiding officers of the two houses will retire to the Supreme Court room and play "seven up" to determine which of the said presiding officers shall decide between returns in dispute. The decision which shall be final is to be made in the following manner: The two presiding officers shall each sit down on opposite sides of a table which shall be at least three feet in diameter. A Justice of the Supreme Court who shall be designated by the Chief Justice and shall be an expert at the game shall be present to see that there is no cheating. He shall take a pack of new cards and after having satisfied himself that none of them are marked shall hand them over the middle of the table when the players shall "cut for deal," according to the rules of Hoyle which shall be considered "the constitution." In this method of counting, The Speaker of the House being "fresh from the people" shall have "first cut." The man winning first deal shall "proceed" "according to Hoyle," and "the best two in three games shall decide each disputed point. In this arrangement the Democrats have a great deal the advantage as there is no Justice of the Supreme Court who is well enough versed in cards to prevent Randall from stealing. It is said that if this plan is adopted Morrissey will recall his decision to declare all bets off, and call on all who have withdrawn their money under that decision to redeposit the same, under penalty of being ruled "out" of the sporting fraternity for refusing. The argument advanced in favor of this plan is that it is more simple, and is the same in principle and substantially the same in practice as that of the Senate committee, as reported by the papers of to-day.

SERIOUSLY HOWEVER, it does not seem possible to believe that any legislative committee could deliberately propose such a plan for deciding who should be the Chief Magistrate of a nation of forty millions of people. I do not think that one half the people will believe the thing possible unless compelled to believe it by the making of the report. It would seem that the recent raid on the Washington gamblers had turned Congress "gamo crazy." The page boys at the Capitol have caught the infection and when a member claps his hands for one to run an errand, they deliberately proceed to draw lots to see which of their number shall respond to the call, and it is no unusual thing, on questions of mere business not connected with politics, to see an old bald-headed member snap "up" a copper to decide whether he shall vote "Aye" or "no." The situation is ludicrous [illegible]

THE OREGON CASE AND TILDEN BARREL.

The committee on the Oregon case have pretty nearly cornered Sammy J. with the $8000 transaction, having drawn from Mr Runyon the name of his mysterious customer who proves to be Mr Conrad Jordan, cashier of the Third National Bank of New York. Mr Jordan testifies that he engaged in the transaction at the request of Mr William Pelton, Secretary of the National Democratic committee, and nephew and Private Secretary to Governor Tilden, who is a large stock holder in the bank. He also states that he made no entry of the same on the books of the bank and took no security for the advancement of the money. The apparent financial bottom of the transaction is, Tilden's barrel of money. The Oregon banker is expected here every day to tell to whom the money went.

Mr Pelton seems to be anxious to give his testimony but the committee are evidently inclined to get at the bottom of the matter without him, or at least to establish enough facts to prevent his fixing up anything that will distort the truth. Mr Jordan states that Tilden is a director in the Bank of which he is cashier, and owns a controlling interest in the stock of the same. Hence, the only reasonable conclusion that can be arrived at, is that the transaction was Tilden's and no one's else.

Senator Kernan of New York represents the democrats on the Oregon Investigation committee and is evidently disposed to give the matter a fair and impartial hearing. Messrs Morton and Mitchell make up the Republican side and is safe to say that nothing short of an impossibility will prevent a full and complete [illegible] of the whole matter.

THE WEATHER

[illegible] favorable to the chilblain crop. We have on hand what was originally about a foot of snow, but the few hours daily thaw that has occurred for a few days past has put it into the condition of the average Virginia family of the present day, reduced by the war to a sloppy and slippery mess. A southern city is very helpless in a snow storm, as they are not prepared for it at all.

I notice that the ice companies are now putting in ice a foot thick out of the Potomac. This looks as though Maine will hardly run the ice trade next summer as a monopoly, as far as Washington is concerned. The butchers and all classes of consumers are putting in large stocks. Their opportunity is the best that has occurred for years.

SOCIETY QUIET.

Society runs low this winter—speaker Randall's Grander levees being the high tendest affairs now reported.

Congress is running on in full force and red tape but the return of the south ern Investigating committee, which will probably take place by Monday with the exception of that from Louisiana will fill up the seats and make more business.

FRED.

The testimony of the chief conspirator Zach Chandler, before the Congressional Committee last Saturday, which we print in full this evening, will prove interesting reading. How the old scoundrel equivocated a little! What a scheme was that by which he undertook to carry Florida and Louisiana for Hayes! Think of a Cabinet officer telegraphing a Governor of a State that money and troops would be furnished him to change the count of a vote of a State after it had been cast! Do the people begin to realize the length and breadth of the great conspiracy?—Bangor Commercial.

We dislike paying any attention to the unscrupulous lies published in our vicinity but at times the nuisance become so intolerable, as to compel notice. We need say nothing in this community of the indecent effrontery of the person who applies such billingsgate to one of the ablest and most successful merchants of the West, a man who represented Michigan in the United States Senate for nineteen consecutive years covering a record of sterling patriotic service during the whole period of the Democratic rebellion, and who is now occupying a position in the Executive Cabinet. But if epithets were in order the choice list above might be supplemented with the charge of imbecility against the writer of such a paragraph containing such a specific charge while the full text of the examination of Mr Chandler in an adjoining column shows the utter falsehood of attributing to him any such purpose language, telegram or suggestion. If the printing of such a deliberate slander is not "scoundrelism" it can escape that designation only through its stupidity.

FROM GARDINER.

Serious Accident.

GARDINER, Jan. 17. Last night's Pullman train for Boston when opposite Rich's ice-house, in Farmingdale, struck a team driven by Peter Murphy, a young man employed by Allen's Publishing House, Augusta. Murphy was taken up by the cow-catcher and carried along until the train was stopped. He received injuries about the head and now lies at the Johnson House in this city in a semi-unconscious state. Physicians think his case very serious. The horse was badly cut and the sleigh stove to fragments.

Another lodge K. of P. was instituted at Biddeford last night.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS, Second Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.

Mr. Morton from the Election Committee, reported the funds for the expenses of investigating committees exhausted and that the bill appropriating $25,000 was delayed in the House. A subcommittee was now unable to proceed in Louisiana for want of money.

After the passage of several private bills Mr. Morton made a speech in response to those of Messrs. Johnson and Withers on the occupation of Petersburg by a company of military on election day.

After some further discussion the subject was laid aside.

Mr. Sargent, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported back the House bill making appropriations for the Consular and Diplomatic service for the year ending June 30, 1878, with various amendments. Placed on the calendar. He gave notice that he would call it up to-morrow.

The report of the Committee on Rules was taken up and an amendment adopted compelling the attendance of absent Senators to make a quorum. An amendment was also adopted that the Vice-President may by his vote determine the question when the Senate is equally divided.

The report was then adopted and the Executive session adjourned.

House.

A resolution was adopted permitting E. W. Barnes to repair at once to New Orleans in custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms for the purpose of procuring certain telegrams and requiring him to return to Washington with such telegrams within ten days.

The resolution of the Judiciary Committee to compel the attendance of the Louisiana Returning Board, was taken up. The resolution was adopted by a party vote.

The resolution for the arrest of the members of the Louisiana Returning Board and their production before the bar of the House to answer for contempt, was adopted by a strict party vote. Yeas 158; nays 81. The Senate amendments to the contingent deficiency bill were reported by Mr. Foster of Ohio, and acted on by the House, some being concurred in and some rejected.

The Speaker presented the resignation of Mr. Spencer of Louisiana, as a member of the House, he having accepted the appointment of Judge of the Supreme Court of Louisiana. Adjourned.

LOUISIANA.

The Existing State of Affairs to Remain Undisturbed for the Present.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17. Gov. Packard having been asked to promise that no effort on his part will be made to disturb the existing state of affairs for the present, reluctantly consents and says in a letter to General Augur after reviewing the history of the past two weeks; "In view of all these facts it seemed to me that to give a pledge verbally asked of me this morning, would be to sanction the resolution and by acquiescence give it the force of an accomplished fact, and I therefore declined. Inasmuch, however, as I learn that the President wishes that the present status should be maintained until the Congressional committees now in Louisiana return and feeling assured that the legal status of the existing State government will speedily be recognized and that the wrongs committed in the last eight days will be set right, I will give the pledge requested that no effort will be made on the part of the lawful State government to forcibly disturb the existing state of affairs without further communication with you."

Depression of Business.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17. The Republican, referring to the present condition of affairs, says: In the meantime the process of law is paralyzed; no business is transacted in the courts, and but little is done in the markets. The people are excited and weary. Mercantile houses are failing and others are in financial straits. Scarcely any produce is coming to market and stocks of goods in stores have no buyers.

CALIFORNIA.

The Welcome Rains.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17. It was raining throughout the Southern counties last evening as well as the central and northern parts of the State. Reports from all points say the prospect is good for its continuance.

OMAHA, Jan. 17. On the second ballot for United States Senator to-day Hitchcock received 27 votes; Converse 12; Saunders 15; Briggs 12; Savage 25; Manderson 4. The rest scattering. Adjourned.

WASHINGTON.

The Electoral Vote Count.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. The World's Washington despatch says the main feature agreed upon by the joint committee on counting the Electoral votes, is that of a tribunal of arbitration, to be composed of the first five Judges of the Supreme Court to be selected in the order of their length of service on the bench. To this arbitration is to be referred all questions of law and equity arising out of contested returns for decision as to which is the proper return to be counted. This decision, however, is not to be final, but is to be left to revision by Congress.

The Cabinet on the Louisiana Resolution.

The World says the Cabinet, yesterday, were generally of the opinion that the Packard government had done nothing requiring the Federal Government to render a decision. The theory of the Constitution is that the State government must exhibit itself unable to resist the antagonistic power before the general government steps in; that if their rights are not worth defending, they are not worth enjoying.

W. E. Chandler Before the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. W. E. Chandler was before the Committee on Privileges and Elections to-day. He testified that he had sent telegrams South, but in none of them had he promised money, or the support of troops. He acknowledged that while in Tallahassee he became the counsel for the Governor of Florida and other Republican candidates for Congress and Electors.

Question—While in Florida did you receive any telegrams or letters from any member of the National Committee in which mention was made of money or troops?

A.—I ought not to answer without the consent of my clients, whom I will advise to give me permission to answer.

The committee insisted upon an answer, but Chandler declined and also declined to say whether he had sent telegrams from Florida to members of the National Committee mentioning money or troops. Witness said he was not certain that the letter to Kergh produced yesterday was actually sent to that gentleman. He thought many of the telegrams were known to Chandler and Gov. McCormick and that the witness dictated all of them. The committee considered the declination of Chandler to answer questions, and although no formal action was taken, it seems certain that they will report the case to the House to-morrow to compel him to answer or be punished for contempt.

The Senate and House Committees' Report on Counting the Electoral Vote.

The Senate and House committees on counting the Electoral vote this evening agreed upon a report which will be signed to-morrow by all the members of both committees except Senator Morton and possibly one Democratic member of the House Committee. The tribunal for the decision of controverted questions will be tripartite, one branch of which will be composed of five Justices of the United States Supreme Court. How these Judges are to be selected, or how the Senate and House branches of the tribunal will be constituted, is not known; but it can be positively stated that the element of chance will not enter in any way into the formation of the tribunal. Its members are to take a special oath to decide the questions according to the Constitution of the United States and the laws made in pursuance thereof.

From the ascertained fact that the judiciary branch of the tribunal will be composed of five members, it is inferred that that the two branches of Congress will each be represented in it by five of their respective members, but this is only a matter of inference. On inquiry of the members of the two committees to-night it is learned that all of them pledged themselves not to speak of the details of the proposed plan for counting the Electoral vote, this caution being taken in order that the public might not be misled by verbal statements apart from the exact phraseology of the official report.

They say that for the last two weeks the committee of the two Houses, acting either separately or in joint meeting, have devoted their best energies and judgment and nearly all their time to efforts to arrive at an accommodation. That the proceedings have uniformly been marked by courtesy and a patriotic spirit, all striving to allay whatever partisan feeling existed and to promote the public good. They are very hopeful that both political parties and the country at large will be satisfied with the result of their labor. The bill embodying the plan agreed upon will be accompanied by a brief report, setting forth the principles upon which it is based, and will be presented to both Houses to-morrow, though it will not probably acted upon immediately. The intelligence that a report had been agreed upon calculated to satisfy both parties occasions very general satisfaction.

TRUE ECONOMY is not in buying the lowest price articles. The best is cheapest. So with the fine cultivated and plantation grown spices imported by Messrs. Pinckney, Jackson & Co. of London and New York. I have just received a shipment of these goods and would specially invite the attention of all consumers to them. These spices are not only absolutely pure, but are without a doubt the finest ever imported into this country. I confidently recommend them as being really of unusual merit.

ABOUT SPICES. I have been selling for a year or two spices of high grade, imported by Messrs. Pinckney, Jackson & Co., and can assure all who want the best goods that none can be found better than these. They are not only PURE, but of very delicate flavor, far superior to the ordinary Pure Spices in the market. A single trial will convince any housekeeper of their value.

A REMARKABLE CURE.
West Townsend, Vt., May 14, 1860.
Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Son:
In the spring of 1847 I took a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, where it remained without relaxation. I was then in Massachusetts, and growing worse and becoming unable to attend to my business, I returned home and commenced searching in earnest for some medicine which would restore my lost health. I consulted physicians, I tried many remedies, but obtained no help, but daily grew worse. I had a terrible cough, and raised a good deal of blood. I had profuse night sweats, and severe pain in my side. I continued in this state for months, and became so weak that it was with great difficulty I could walk, when I was advised to try WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and to my great joy I soon found that this remedy had arrested the disease. I continued to use the BALSAM to the extent of five bottles, and have since then experienced no difficulty of the lungs. I believe the Balsam saved my life, and I shall ever hold it in high estimation.
Yours truly, LEWIS PHELPS.

PENOBSCOT AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY. At the meeting of the Penobscot Agricultural Society yesterday morning, the following gentlemen were elected delegates to attend the convention of the agricultural societies of Penobscot county to be held at the office of D. M. Dunham, of this city, January 31st, for the purpose of electing a member of the Board of Agriculture: H. K. Robinson, Thomas Hersey, Hebron Luce, Albert Hall, B. A. Burr, Simson Peasley. There being but a small number present, the election of officers was postponed until Wednesday, February 14th.

THE WATER WORKS. The employment of the water wheels and consequent discontinuance of the steam engine at the Water Works, has necessitated additional means for heating the pump-house, and steam radiators have been fitted which were put in operation Wednesday and afforded ample warmth for the large room. Mr. C. G. Lynch, superintendent of repairs on the Post-office, furnished valuable suggestions as to the arrangement of the heating apparatus, for which the officers express their appreciation. One of the boilers has been arranged so that only a part of the grate surface is used, and ample steam for heating is thus supplied with a small consumption of coal. The water wheels are working excellently.

THE ART ASSOCIATION. Last evening a very pleasant meeting of the Art Association was held at their rooms in Hatch's block. The entertainment, a musical one, was a very enjoyable affair. Indeed, it opened with a charming piano duett—"Ten Maidens and one Man,"—overture by Suppe—finely played by Mrs. Davenport and Miss Evans. Miss Nellie Chapman sang sweetly "When a Lover is Poor." Messrs. Moody and Holden sang "Flow Gently," J. Parry, and Miss Crowell "Oh! Morning," "Ah! so Early"—Ghetty. The piano and violin duett, "Adagio, from 10th Sonata of Beethoven," by Miss Rowe and Mr. McQuown was a beautifully rendered piece, which was followed by "The Lover and the Bird," a song excellently sung by Mrs. W. F. Shaw. At the close of the concert refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in social converse by the members and friends.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEA WEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS.—These deservedly celebrated and popular medicines have effected a revolution in the healing art, and proved the fallacy of several maxims which have for many years obstructed the progress of medical science. The false supposition that "Consumption is incurable" deterred physicians from attempting to find remedies for that disease, and patients afflicted with it reconciled themselves to death without making an effort to escape from a doom which they supposed to be unavoidable. It is now proved, however, that Consumption can be cured, and that it has been cured in a very great number of cases (some of them apparently desperate ones) by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone; and in other cases by the same medicine in connection with Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, one or both, according to the requirements of the case.

Dr. Schenck himself, who enjoyed uninterrupted good health for more than forty years, was supposed, at one time to be at the very gate of death, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless, and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and, since his recovery, many thousands similarly affected have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

MARK THESE FACTS!

The Testimony of the Whole World!

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

"I had no appetite; Holloway's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Pills are marvellous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Holloway has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured."

"Your box of Holloway's Ointment cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Ointment behind the ears and the noise has left."

"Send me two boxes; I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar; your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your Pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail, for Chills and Fever."

I have over 200 such testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

For Cutaneous Disorders.

And all eruptions of the skin this Ointment is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

Invariably cure the following diseases:

Disorder of the Kidneys.

In all diseases affecting these organs, whether they secrete too much or too little water, or whether they be afflicted with stone or gravel, or with aches and pains settled in the loins over the regions of the kidneys, these Pills should be taken according to the printed directions, and the Ointment should be well rubbed into the small of the back at bed time. This treatment will give almost immediate relief when all other means have failed.

For Stomachs out of Order.

No medicine will so effectually improve the tone of the stomach as these Pills; they remove all acidity occasioned either by intemperance or improper diet. They reach the liver and reduce it to a healthy action; they are wonderfully efficacious in cases of spasm—in fact they never fail in curing all disorders of the liver and stomach.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the best known in the world for the following diseases: Ague, Asthma, Bilious Complaints, Blotches on the Skin, Bowels, Consumption, Debility, Dropsy, Dysentery, Erysipelas, Female Irregularities, Fevers of all kinds, Fits, Gout, Headache, Indigestion, Inflammation, Jaundice, Liver Complaints, Lumbago, Piles, Rheumatism, Retention of Urine, Scrofula or King's Evil, Sore Throats, Stone and Gravel, Tic-Douloureux, Tumors, Ulcers, Worms of all kinds, Weakness from any cause, etc.

IMPORTANT CAUTION.

None are genuine unless the signature of J. HAYDOCK, as agent for the United States, surrounds each box of Pills and Ointment. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

Sold at the manufactory of Professor HOLLOWAY & CO., New York, and by all respectable druggists and dealers in medicine throughout the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 62 cents, and $1 each.

There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each box.
